Veterans, Society and Service: America's Experience of Modern War

HST 394 (SLN 91484)

Fall 2018

Professor Mark von Hagen

Who are veterans? How and why do citizens become military service members and what is the experience of recruitment, training, service, and transition to civilian life? How do we “read” a military uniform and differentiate the cultures of the five branches over time? How does military service lead or follow the nation in issues of class, gender, civil rights and LGBTQ? What are society's obligations to veterans and families and how do they transition through health care, higher education, employment and continued service?
